

EUROPE IN CRISIS:

The Future of the EU and Trans-Atlantic Relations

Thursday, April 6, 2017

Discovery Building, DeLuca Forum

2 to 5:30 p.m.

Brexit, Trump, and the Future of the Global Economy

Gillian Tett, Financial Times

Gillian Tett serves as U.S. Managing Editor for the Financial Times. She writes weekly columns covering a range of economic, financial, political, and social issues. Previously, she was the Financial Time's capital markets editor, deputy editor of the Lex column, Tokyo bureau chief, Tokyo correspondent, London-based economics reporter, and reporter in Russian and Brussels. Her 2015 book, The Silo Effect, looks at the global economy and financial system through the lens of cultural anthropology. In 2014, she was named Columnist of the Year in the British Press Awards and was the first recipient of the Royal Anthropological Institute Marsh Award. In June 2009, her book Fool's Gold won Financial Book of the Year at the inaugural Spear's Book Awards. Tett has a PhD in social anthropology from Cambridge University, based on research conducted in the former Soviet Union in the early 1990s.

Chad Bown, Peterson Institute for International Economics.

Chad Bown joined the Peterson Institute as Senior Fellow in April 2016. The PIIE is a nonpartisan, nonprofit organization known for its rigorous, intellectually open, and in-depth study and discussion of international economic policy. Bown's research examines international trade laws and institutions, trade negotiations, and trade disputes. He previously served as senior economist for international trade and investment in the White House on the Council of Economic Advisers and most recently as a lead economist at the World Bank. Bown received a PhD in economics from the University of Wisconsin–Madison.

Mark Hallerberg, Hertie School of Governance

Mark Hallerberg is Professor of Public Management and Political Economy at the Hertie School of Governance and is Director of the Master of Public Policy and Master of International Affairs programs. His research focuses on fiscal governance, tax competition, financial crises, and European Union politics. He previously held academic positions at Emory University, where he maintains an affiliation with the Political Science Department, as well as at the University of Pittsburgh and Georgia Institute of Technology. He has advised, among others, Ernst and Young Poland, the European Central Bank, the German Corporation for International Cooperation (GIZ), the Inter-American Development Bank, the International Monetary Fund, and the World Bank. He received his PhD in Political Science from the University of California, Los Angeles, in 1995.

EUROPE IN CRISIS:

The Future of the EU and Trans-Atlantic Relations

Thursday, April 6, 2017

Discovery Building, DeLuca Forum

2 to 5:30 p.m.

A Continent Re-Divided? European Integration in Turbulent Times

Peter Hall, Harvard University

Peter Hall is Krupp Foundation Professor of European Studies in the Department of Government and at the Minda de Gunzburg Center for European Studies, as well as Co-Director of the Program on Successful Societies for the Canadian Institute for Advanced Research. He is editor of Successful Societies: How Institutions and Culture Affect Health (with Michèle Lamont), Varieties of Capitalism: The Institutional Foundations of Comparative Advantage (with David Soskice), The Political Power of Economic Ideas: Keynesianism across Nations, and Developments in French Politics I and II (with A. Guyomarch and H. Machin). Hall also is the author of Governing the Economy: The Politics of State Intervention in Britain and France and more than 70 articles on European politics and comparative political economy. His research currently focuses on methods of political science, the political response to economic challenges in postwar Europe, and the impact of social institutions on inequalities in population health.

Sophie Meunier, Princeton University

Sophie Meunier is Research Scholar in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University and Co-Director of the EU Program at Princeton. She is the author of Trading Voices: The European Union in International Commercial Negotiations (Princeton University Press, 2005) and The French Challenge: Adapting to Globalization (Brookings Institution Press, 2001). In 2002, she received the France-America book award. Meunier also is co-editor of several books on Europe and globalization, most recently The Politics of Interest Representation in the Global Age (Cambridge University Press, 2014) and Speaking with a Single Voice: The EU as an Effective Actor in Global Governance? (Routledge, 2015). Her current work deals with the politics of Foreign Direct Investment in Europe, notably Chinese investment. She was made Chevalier des Palmes Academiques by the French Government.

Art Goldhammer, Harvard University

Art Goldhammer is a writer, translator, and affiliate of the Center for European Studies at Harvard University. He is a long-time observer of French politics and regularly contributes commentary on his blog, French Politics. Goldhammer has taught at Brandeis University and Boston University. He has translated more than 125 books from French, for which he has won numerous awards. His most recent award was for Thomas Piketty's bestseller Capital in the 21st Century. Goldhammer also serves on the editorial board of French Politics, Culture, and Society. He received his PhD in mathematics from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.